

How does he dare?!

While the priests and elders are still wondering what gives Jesus the right to kick the moneychangers out of the Temple, he turns their question about his authority back on them.

Today's lessons:

- Exodus 17:1-7 Once more on their way through the desert, the Israelites complain to Moses, this time about thirst. But of course, in the end it's not Moses who is responsible: being angry at him really means to be angry at God!
- Psalms 78:1-4, 12-16 God showed his power and his mercy, opening a source of water in the middle of the desert.
- Philippians 2:1-13 Try to imitate the example of Jesus Christ who didn't insist on any privileges, but in all that he did he had the good of others in mind – as it is the will of God.
- Matthew 21:23-32 Teaching in the Temple in Jerusalem, Jesus is confronted by the Jewish authorities who are in charge of the building. What they don't realize is that Jesus is the master of the house who has all the authority.
