Even our psalm today is impatiently waiting for God's promises to finally manifest. But if you rearrange the letters everything will be just fine:

A Word of Warning

What God says in the book of Hosea to the people of Israel is – thankfully – not God's last word:

Today's lessons:

Hosea 1:2-10

The marriage of the prophet Hosea to a whore serves as a sign for Israel's unfaithfulness, and their children, too, have symbolical names, dealing with that broken relationship.

Psalm 85

The Lord has forgiven his people and is on his way to bring salvation and good times.

Colossians 2:6-15 (16-19)

Apparently, the Colossians are being bullied into observing all kinds of rules and laws, when really they should live in Christian freedom.

Luke 11:1-13

Jesus encourages his disciples to pray and assures them that God will listen like a father.

A lot to consider ?!

Should the Colossians really build their lives on all of this?

Talking to the Father

In today's Gospel lesson Jesus teaches his disciples about prayer. But – maybe contrary to their expectations – he doesn't teach them a special technique for effective prayer. Instead he assures them that God will always have an open ear for them:
